THE PROGRAMS

What's on the menu from AkindaCo

We have three standalone programs, or you are welcome to combine them. Learn to Play is for a small group of children and the educators who work with them, the training is for your whole team, and allied health supports bring our therapists into your centre to work with groups.

GROUP FOR CHILDREN

Learn to Play

- 8 to 10 children and two of your educators
- 17 weekly program visits plus a set-up visit, over two terms
- Two hours each week, always in your room
- $570 + GST per visit · full program $10,260

TRAINING FOR YOUR TEAM

Attachment, Trauma and Child Development

- Six 3-hour units, fortnightly across one term
- Any number of educators for the one price
- Online or in your centre, evening or morning stream
- $855 + GST per unit · full series $5,130

ALLIED HEALTH SUPPORTS

Therapists working with groups

- Our therapists alongside groups of children and educators
- Observation, small groups, modelling and coaching
- Shaped to your centre's goals on the planning call
- $194 + GST per hour

THE CALENDAR

How a school year holds both programs

Training fits inside one term. Learn to Play takes two consecutive terms. Most centres run one of these patterns.

Term 1

LEARN TO PLAY

Set-up visit, then program weeks 1 to 8

TRAINING

Units 1 to 6, fortnightly from Week 1, with supervision on the alternate weeks if you add it

Term 2

LEARN TO PLAY

Program weeks 9 to 17, finishing before the mid-year break

Term 3

LEARN TO PLAY

Set-up visit, then program weeks 1 to 8

TRAINING

A second team, or a centre starting mid-year

Term 4

LEARN TO PLAY

Program weeks 9 to 17. Term 4 is short, so the block uses its make-up week

Learn to Play pauses over the holidays at no charge. Each 9-week block keeps one make-up week in hand for a public holiday or a centre closure, so it still finishes inside the term. If your allocation only reaches half the program this year, book a starter block, which is the set-up visit and program weeks 1 to 8, and complete the program in your next plan.

BOOKING

From enquiry to first visit, in five steps

Flying Start partner services build their Preschool Boost plans between August and November for the following year. That is the best time to send a request, but we take them all year.

Changes need more than two weeks' notice before your start date. Rescheduling with two weeks' notice is free.

CLEAR AND FAIR

What it costs, without the fine print

Every price is per session for your whole team, whatever its size. A training unit costs the same whether four educators attend or twenty-four. The rate that applies is the one for the year your program starts.

2027 rates are our 2026 rates indexed by CPI at 3.8%. All prices exclude GST.

ITEM	STARTS IN 2026	STARTS IN 2027

EXPECTATIONS

What we'll ask of your centre

Not much, but the few things we ask make the difference between a program that sticks and one that drifts.

For the training

- A room that fits your team, with a projector or a TV we can plug a laptop into. If there is neither, we bring printed slides.
- Educators released for the three hours of each unit, and 90 minutes for each supervision session if you add them.
- One contact person for dates, room set-up and invoicing.

For Learn to Play

- A play space for 8 to 10 children, and a quiet spot for the educator sessions before and after.
- The same two educators every week, in the room for the full two hours. They are co-facilitators, so the session cannot cover breaks or ratios.
- Help choosing the children, and the same day and time each week.
- A few everyday toys set out from the short list we send the day before. We bring the Learn to Play kit and the weekly handout.

For everything

- Someone who can confirm the quote in writing.
- A finance contact who can set AkindaCo up as a supplier. Doing this at booking saves a term of chasing later.
- As much notice as you can give if a session cannot go ahead.

LOGISTICS

Setting up, term by term

When can we start?

Training runs by school term from Week 1, in the Tuesday evening or Wednesday morning stream. Learn to Play runs weekly in a morning slot (9:30 to 11:30 am) or an afternoon slot (1:30 to 3:30 pm). Wednesday mornings fill first. 2027 terms are booking now.

How long does set-up take?

We confirm your trainer or therapist six weeks before you start, check your room and equipment four weeks out, and your invoice is due two weeks out. Booking a term ahead keeps everything comfortable.

Holidays and public holidays?

Learn to Play pauses over the term break at no charge and picks up in Week 1 of the next term. Each block has a make-up week in hand for a public holiday or closure, so it still finishes inside the term.

Two years, or two rooms?

The two Learn to Play blocks are always consecutive terms, so Terms 3 and 4 this year or Terms 1 and 2 next year both work. Within a week the

What if a session is cancelled?

If we cancel, for example because your therapist is unwell, we make it up at the end of the block at no charge. If your centre cancels with less than two business days' notice, the session is in the Learn to Play group, and a team who can keep the play group going.

What do we get at the end?

GOOD QUESTIONS

The things directors ask us first

Is the 17 weeks for both programs?

Is the price per educator?

Can we book just one training unit?

How many staff can attend the training?

Can training run after hours, or in a staff meeting?

Can any of it be online?

We are outside metro Adelaide. Can you still come?

Can Learn to Play run fortnightly, or for fewer weeks?

Can we hold dates before our Preschool Boost plan is approved?

Our group is bigger than ten children. Does that matter?

Can staff who miss a training unit catch up?

What do we get for our Preschool Boost reporting?

Does this count as on-menu spending for a Flying Start partner service?

Can we use allied health supports for one child?

Who delivers the programs?

Will prices change?
